What To Do:

Playing with bubbles provides wonderful sensorial experiences for your child. Try putting a few drops of liquid soap into a large container of water. Show your child how to use a whisk to create bubbles. Let your child enjoy this activity while you move away and observe. How long does your child spend with this activity? It is interesting to observe your child's attention span with activities. Your child may enjoy some activities more than others, which is fine!

Variations:

Have your child blow through a straw, stirring up more bubbles.
